

accessories editor MELISSA LUM'S TOP FOUR SITES

SHOPTWOSEE.COM for small labels Each piece from this London store is like an edgy work of art. And with designers like Burfitt and Preen, there's not a single item I wouldn't wear.

DANIBLACK.COM for shoes This brand makes really comfortable, on-trend heels. I practically live in their lace-up platform booties.

DOVERSTREETMARKET.COM for accessories Every iteration of every Comme des Garçons wallet—which I'm infatuated with—is here, plus all the line's other collaborations: Speedo, Play, Fred Perry.

ASHTRAY.SE for Scandinavian designers This shop, based in Sweden, is my go-to source for up-and-coming, innovative talents like Our Legacy and Henrik Vibskov.

my favorite blogs

"I love how the home decor and fashion worlds inspire each other with colors, textures, and trends," says Seattle-based Cassandra LaValle, who devotes her blog, cocokelley.blogspot.com, to her varied design obsessions. Here are the sites she's clicking on now:

shebreathes.com "This blog highlights excellent designers from all over the globe—every day I encounter some fresh one I've never heard of before."

creaturecomforts.typepad.com "A cute, craft-centric mix of clothing and home goods. And I adore the gorgeous way the writer arranges her posts to look like inspiration boards."

luisaviaroma.com "It has loads of swoon-worthy lines, from Emma Hope to Lanvin. It's in Florence but ships anywhere."

With their abbreviated fit and tuxedo-style polish, waist jackets are one of the best shapes for winter. And it's hard to argue with the authentic and very affordable versions on this uniform-focused retailer: They're sleek and simple—everything you'd want. Plus, check out the site's "school uniforms" section for cable-knit tights and pleated skirts in more than 60 different plaids.

While northerner.com stocks all sorts of goods—painted clogs, caviar in a tube—from Scandinavia, jewelry is the big draw. We're torn between the woven-pewter-and-reindeer-leather bracelets and the rough-hewn snake rings, which are based on Viking designs.
